Design of the times

The practice of designing homes is given a fresh and unique approach thanks to Atelier D'Architecture Bruno Epicum & Partenaires...

Simplicity, humility and originality are the key watchwords for Atelier d'Architecture Bruno Epicum & Partenaires. The architecture firm starts each project with a quest to understand what renders it unique (this could be anything from the client requirements to the geography of the local area). As a result, homes designed by Bruno Epicum magnify whatever innate beauty is already there.

With each project, the company always strives to find a new angle, setting up a dialogue between the nature of the building site, the owner and the architect.

Whether it's a home with large, on-display bay windows or a property which shields the owners from the outside world, the talented architects at Bruno Epicum are experts at creating it. Similarly, they are equally adept designing structures which dominate the horizon as they are with buildings that are embedded within the geographical detail of the site.

Bruno Epicum & Partenaires believe that there is always an adequate solution that respects the possibilities of the building site and the wishes of its future occupants. This could explain why the company rejects ready-made constructs. In their words, they "fight against the model house."

Thanks to their belief in honest architecture, Bruno Epicum respects and listens to nature and life, paying close attention to materials and the minutiae of design. As a result, the company sees every structure built under their auspices as a "new adventure" they are happy to share with their customers.
